Charles C. Plummer

Blayney Aug.

There is a divine presence in our midst
- reaching to my very soul and the great Creator. What should we not adore his matchless power and the infinite beauty and glory of light and life flowing in the spheres of his universe.
He hath all power in his hands. He is mighty to preserve and a powerful shield to them that love him. Behold his firmament where all things are at his command. He bids the lightning glare, the thunder roar.
He can measure the waters and hold them in the hollow of his hand.
He can calm the roaring sea and walk upon its agitating waves. It is I the afflicted Jew to name. Behold to the eternal spheres of his universe beyond the grave, and the redemption of all who will accept of it.

Sailing down the stream of life In a little bark canoe I hope you'll have a pleasant trip And money enough for two
